

Andromeda Helps Marken Secure Its Chicagoland Facility With ProWatch and Genetec Solutions

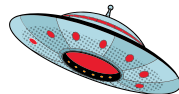

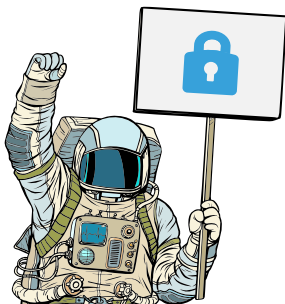

The company now has a trusted provider for its building security needs for all new U.S.-based locations.

Marken, a global shipping company specializing in temperature-controlled storage and distribution services, was looking to open a branch office in the Chicagoland area.

The Challenge:

Marken needed help installing access control and surveillance systems at its new Chicago location.

The company wanted to:

- Implement Honeywell's ProWatch access control hardware without duplicating the head-end server from Marken's corporate office in London.
- Replicate the Genetec corporate video surveillance system used at its other facilities.

“

We had security systems that worked, but weren't sure how to bring them to a new location cost-effectively. Andromeda stepped in and took the hard work off our shoulders.

- Project Manager
Distribution Company

The Action:

Marken discovered that Andromeda was a perfect fit because the company was able to install access control and surveillance technologies. Andromeda's experience in multi-site ProWatch deployments was also a benefit. The technicians:

Installed security door hardware at the new Chicago facility

Set up the hardware to communicate with the access control server in London

Installed Genetec cameras and server equipment throughout the premises

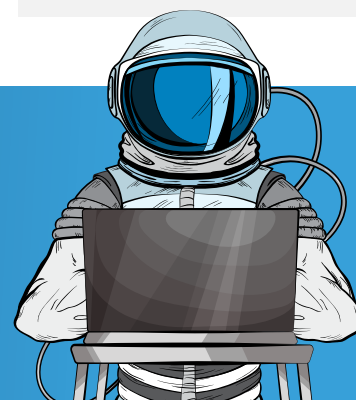

Configured the surveillance equipment for remote user access

Andromeda really took the time to identify our needs and create solutions that saved us time and money.

- Project Manager
Distribution Company

The Result:

- ✓ Marken's new facility is now protected 24/7 with fully-integrated Genetec and ProWatch security systems.
- ✓ Thanks to Andromeda's access control hardware configuration, Marken saved on additional software and server duplication costs.
- ✓ Marken has a trusted building security partner for new U.S.-based facilities – with the next setup happening soon in New York.

Whenever we have questions about security, the Andromeda team is always quick to help out and solve our most pressing challenges.

- Project Manager
Distribution Company